

Denver Health School-Based Clinic

Denver Health's School-Based Health Center (SBHC) offer no-cost healthcare, meaning, there will be no bills sent home or costs for prescriptions. Services are available to any Denver Public Schools student or sibling. SBHC offers convenient care that limits the amount of time students are out of class and parents/guardians have to be off work. Students are able to get same-day or next-day appointments.

We're offering in-person or telephone/video appointments.

Locations: There are 19 School-based Health Centers located in Denver Public Schools around the city. If there is not a location at your child's school, you may use the one located closest to you. Click here to see the list of SBHC.

Hours: Mon- Fri 7:30-4:00

Appointments:

You can schedule your students for a visit at the clinic by calling 303.602.8958 or online through MyChart.

Services:

- Well Child Checks that meet the requirements of school, sports, camp, and employment physical exams
- Immunizations
- COVID-19 testing and immunization
- Care for chronic conditions and acute injury and illness
- Prescriptions, medication, and routine lab tests
- Individual, group, and family mental health counseling

Parental Consent & Confidentiality

A parent or guardian must sign a consent form before their child may use health center services. Once this is done, the child can use the health center at any time during the current school year. Supporting family communication is the main goal of the health center. Clinic staff encourages patients to discuss health care with their parents.

Sign the consent form, and sign up for the SBHC of your choice in English, Spanish or Vietnamese.

*Please note: Colorado state law allows minors to access confidential mental health and/or reproductive health services without parental consent. If a student meets the age requirements by law a signed parent consent form is not required. Colorado state law also allows some visits to the health center to be confidential. Information is not shared without student permission. The only exception is a life-threatening situation.
